ADDITIONAL IMPRISONMENT TERMS

You can appeal your conviction if you believe that your guilty plea was somehow unlawful or involuntary, or if there is some other fundamental defect in the proceedings that was not waived in your plea agreement.

Under some circumstances, a defendant also has the right to appeal the sentence. However, a defendant may waive that right as part of a plea agreement, and you have entered into a plea agreement which waives some of your rights to appeal the sentence itself. Such waivers are generally enforceable, but if you believe the waiver itself is not valid, you can present that theory to the appellate court.

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255, you also have the right to challenge the conviction entered or sentence imposed, to the extent permitted by that statute [and your plea agreement]. Any notice of appeal must be filed within fourteen days of the entry of judgment or within fourteen days of the filing of a notice of appeal by the government. If you are unable to afford the cost of an appeal, you may request permission from the Court to file an appeal without cost to you. On appeal, you may also apply for court-appointed counsel.

There were no objections to the sentence imposed that are not already noted on the record - See United States v. Hunter, 809 F.3d 677 (D.C. Cir. 2016).

The Probation Office shall release the presentence investigation report to all appropriate agencies, which includes the United States Probation Office in the approved district of residence, in order to execute the sentence of the Court. Treatment agencies shall return the presentence report to the Probation Office upon the defendant's completion or termination from treatment.
